On September 11, 2001, almost 3,000 people lost their lives during the attacks at the Twin Towers, Pentagon and aboard United Airlines Flight 93. At 8:46 a.m. ET, American Airlines Flight 11 hit the north tower of the World Trade Center in New York City. At 9:03 a.m. ET, United Airlines Flight 175 hit the south tower of the World Trade Center. At 9:37 a.m. ET, American Airlines Flight 77 hit the Pentagon Building in Washington. And at 10:03 a.m. ET, United Airlines Flight 93 crashed in a field near Shanksville, Pennsylvania.

Around the country, people paused to remember those who lost their lives on the anniversary of the 9/11 attacks, vowing to “never forget.” On the upcoming 20th anniversary of the September 11th tragedy, remember and reflect.

“Even the smallest act of service, the simplest act of kindness, is a way to honor those we lost, a way to reclaim that spirit of unity that followed 9/11.”

MESSAGE FROM YOUR.....

As August comes to an end and our kids begin an exciting and uncertain school year, it's time for me to take stock of this Summer in the Virginia Headwaters Council.

First, I'd like to thank Gary Kellenberger for his cheerful service as our Monticello District Executive. Gary is leaving the professional ranks of Scouting and embarking on a new career path. We wish him the best of luck. I'm sure that he'll prosper.

Second, Dr. Jay Fox, our tireless VP of Camping, just offered a thorough review of this Summer's good season at Camp Shenandoah. We have much work to do, but we all need to commend Jay, Scott Lancey, and our splendid Camp Shenandoah Key Three—Josh, Daniel, and Hunter. They performed superb work in guiding us and leading us to a successful camp experience for over 1100 youth.

Third, thanks to our COVID Response Committee (which included most of the aforementioned team), which has been recognized as one of the best in the USA.

Fourth, looking forward from the Camp Shenandoah report, it is even more clear that we need to evolve our camp facilities, program, and its staffing to better meet the future. Our priorities are clear:

- Improve Critical Safety Facilities — To meet youth and BSA needs, we need to (a) replace our medical care facility and (b) evolve toward durable single-person shower and bathroom facilities.
- Improve Cub Support — We'll add programming and infrastructure to create a more inviting and fulfilling Cub and Webelos experience.
- Improve Staff Experience — We need to improve training, materials, compensation (including garb and wards), and support for our renowned staff.
- Improve Campsite Experience — We're exploring use of safer single-person tenting, more in-campsite cooking, and (in keeping with our rustic, nature-connected character) limited "backcountry features" at our campsites.
- Improve Year-Round Repairs — As we pivot to year-round programming, accommodate for better off-season summer camp preparation.

Finally, thanks to everyone who helped prepare Camp Shenandoah on the quick this last Spring, so that our good staff could make this such a great youth experience under such trying conditions.

Pete Fenlon, Council President

If you build it, they will come.

That is one of those ear worms that won't go away. It applies to Scouting more than ever before. Our future membership is with the Cubs. Most of your Troops are filled with youth who started in Cubs and crossed over. When a Scout crosses over it is likely they have been in Scouting for half of their life and as far back as they can remember. They are more likely to stay in the Program and either age out, get their Eagle, or both. Nice facts, but how can we use this information?

Look at the largest Troops around and you will see adults and youth that are still actively connected to a Pack. Their reasons for staying involved with a Pack are mixed, but the outcome is the same. These very young Cubs see a path beyond their Pack and not an end but a beginning. I can think of at least two Scoutmasters who spend a significant amount of time helping to build a Pack. In turn these youth are more likely to come over to that Troop. Is it familiarity, or the friendly helping personality? It kind of doesn't matter when you are sitting at a campfire with only a handful of Scouts. You need critical mass. So, my advice to the wise old Scoutmaster. Show up with some older Scouts and help run a Pinewood Derby. Plan a joint outing. Engage the Cubs. If you ~~build~~ ~~it~~ engage with them, they will ~~come~~ cross over to your Troop. To the Cubmaster who doesn't want to be bothered by the added confusion, the program doesn't end with you but it will start a lifetime of adventure.

Joe Reisinger, Council Commissioner

Greeting Scouts and Scouters,

After spending the summer helping out at Camp I am more pumped up than ever. Seeing all of our scouts, staff and leaders so excited to be back and having fun in the woods was truly the inspiration I and the rest of us needed. For the first time in a long time all of my weekends are clearly marked with strong scouting activities and I cannot be more pleased and excited.

These awesome events include Wood Badge, Order of the Arrow, Southern Golf Tournament, Clay Shooting event, Valley and Massanutten Golf Tournament, Harvest Auction, Grindstone weekend plus the camping my own boys are doing with Troop 84. It's awesome to be back in full swing. Almost every adult I spent time with this summer asked what can I do to help. My answer was simple, we need each of you to attend one or more of the above events in support and recruit people to come with us and above all and most important, go out and recruit 3 cub scouts by Halloween. I said it's that simple. Now that we are back and hitting our stride we need to build up our base and Scout ON! Please join me and our incredible volunteers as we rebuild and have a great time along the scouting trail.

National Youth Leadership Training (NYLT)

July 31—August 6, 2022

Camp Shenandoah—Registration is Open

NYLT is an exciting, action-packed program designed for councils to provide youth members with leadership skills and experience they can use in their home troops and in other situations demanding leadership of self and others. For many years, junior leader training (JLT) was an important part of the leadership training continuum of BSA local councils throughout America. In 2003 and 2004, a task force of leadership experts and hundreds of Scouts in pilot courses across the nation reviewed and tested every aspect of the new NYLT syllabus, which incorporates the latest leadership ideas and presents fresh, vital and meaningful training for today's Scouts.

The NYLT course centers around the concepts of what a leader must BE, what a leader must KNOW, and what a leader must DO. The key elements are then taught with a clear focus on HOW TO. The skills come alive during the week as the patrol goes on a Quest for the Meaning of Leadership.

NYLT is a six-day course. Content is delivered in a troop and patrol outdoor setting with an emphasis on immediate application of learning in a fun environment. Interconnecting concepts and work processes are introduced early, built upon, and aided by the use of memory aids, which allows participants to understand and employ the leadership skills much faster.

Built on the legacy of past JLT successes, the new NYLT integrates the best of modern leadership theory with the traditional strengths of the Scouting experience. Through activities, presentations, challenges, discussions, and audio-visual support, NYLT participants will be engaged in a unified approach to leadership that will give them the skill and confidence to lead well. Through a wide range of activities, games, and adventures, participants will work and play together as they put into action the best Scouting has to offer.

SCOUTING MEMORIES PROJECT

By Ray Ezell, VAHC Historian

This year, the Scouting Memories Project (SMP) finalized the new interactive www.scoutingmemories.org website. The Scouting Memories hub will provide a repository for council, camp, and lodge histories. Sponsored by the National Scouting Museum, SMP is a partnership with the Order of the Arrow and the BSA Alumni programs to tell the history and stories of the BSA movement since its inception in 1910.

Oral histories and historical essays for the Virginia Headwaters Council and its predecessor councils are being added to the SMP hub to capture local stories for the BSA archives by Ray Ezell, VAHC Historian. As the Scouting Memories Project progresses, there will be more opportunities to build our council, camp, and lodge pages to showcase the places and people important to our local story of Scouting.

I would like to invite anyone that wants to contribute to telling their local scouting story, to reach out to me at rayezell_2000@yahoo.com to learn more.

Trappers Needed!

Are you tired of all those zoom meetings and sitting in front of your computer? I am certainly tired of that and have increasingly tried to get outside with fresh air.

We have a great opportunity where you can get outside, get lunch (no charge), have some adult beverages (no charge), and meet many people who are not necessarily Scouters and not particularly involved in our movement but support us. This opportunity is the annual Breaking Clays for Scouts.

We need people to be trappers. You ask, what is a trapper at a clay shot? A trapper is the person who releases the clays for the shooters. If you can operate a TV remote and/or your cell phone, you are qualified. Even though you are qualified, we will provide on the job training.

This is a great opportunity to thank many people for supporting Scouts and having a great time yourself.

Please let me know if you will be a trapper or know someone who will be willing to have this fun. Call me, e-mail me, or tell me you will do this!

Thanks,
Kent Schlussel

2021 Eagle Scout Project of the Year: He built an exhibit to honor heroes of D-Day

A simple question spoke volumes.

"Raise your hand if you know what D-Day is," the teacher said one day in Christopher Adam's eighth grade honors history class.

Christopher's hand went up. He looked around, and only two other hands were raised. Just three members of the class of 25 knew that D-Day — June 6, 1944 — is the day the Allies invaded Western Europe in World War II.

"It was sad to see that students my age didn't know about the sacrifices of the Greatest Generation," Christopher says.

"With my Eagle project on the horizon, I thought it would be good to memorialize them and be able to educate people my age about what they did for us."

In 2019, Christopher did precisely that. For his Eagle Scout service project, he organized a team that designed and constructed a permanent D-Day exhibit at the U.S. Army Heritage and Education Center in Carlisle, Pa., the U.S. Army's primary historical research facility.

The exhibit, called "Liberation Pointe," includes full-scale replica bronze statues of two soldiers landing on the beaches of Normandy. The statues are enclosed in a pentagon of marble — with each side representing a different D-Day beach and displaying what took place there, including eyewitness accounts from three veterans.

The exhibit was completed in 2019 during the 75th anniversary year of the D-Day invasion. Christopher and his team worked for 18 months, and the project involved nearly $200,000 in donated labor and materials.

For his remarkable efforts to memorialize this part of history and educate others, Christopher Thomas Adam, a member of Troop 88 of Mechanicsburg, Pa., received the 2021 Glenn A. and Melinda W. Adams Service Project of the Year Award.

(Why 2021 when the project was completed in 2019? Adams Award eligibility is determined by when a young person completes their Eagle Scout board of review, not when they completed their project. For the 2021 award, eligible Eagle Scouts had to have passed their Eagle board of review between Jan. 1, 2020, and Feb. 8, 2021.)

Heroes, never forgotten

Each passing year, our country's memories of World War II continue to fade — a reality evidenced by that show-of-hands test from Christopher's history class.

When Christopher began telling the members of his community — elected officials, business owners and other citizens — about his project, he told them how he wanted to help combat those fading memories.

"Many older people realize that my generation is starting to forget about the sacrifice of these great men and women who fought in World War II," he says. "When the community understood that the goal of my project was to honor the sacrifices of these vets, they saw my passion and wanted to be part of the project."

To deepen his own connection to the events, Christopher interviewed World War II veterans. He says these heroes "taught me everything I could ever learn about selflessness." He listened as they shared jaw-dropping stories of survival — staying alive after their ships were bombed or they were sent to prisoner-of-war camps.

"I cannot put a price on the valuable experience I got from working with them," he says. "At the ages of 95, 97, even 99 years old, these men are still giving back, still happy to tell stories, answer questions, do whatever they can to help the country. These World War II vets, like all veterans, have taught me the true spirit of being an American."

"They are truly the greatest generation, and it was my pleasure to be able to honor them."

Firm Bound In Brotherhood

A message from Shenandoah Lodge 258, Order of the Arrow...

August is always a big month for Shenandoah Lodge. We welcomed 39 new Ordeal members to our Order. We saw 7 seal their membership in Brotherhood. We also saw 7 Arrowmen receive the Vigil Honor. And if that wasn't enough, we also held Lodge Officer elections, ending one term and beginning another.

A heartfelt thank you to Ben Chisholm for his term as Lodge Chief. He carried quite a load for the entire Lodge during his term, filling numerous roles, and being an ultimate servant leader. Thank you!

And congratulations to Donathan Linebrink as our newly elected Lodge Chief for our next "lodge year." His fellow officers are:

Ben Annan, Vice-Chief for Program;
Connor Wolfe, Vice-Chief for Inductions;
Elliot Potter, Vice-Chief for Outreach; and Ethan Jones, Secretary/Treasurer.

You can learn a little more about these Arrowmen on the Lodge website at <https://shenandoahlodge.org/leadership/>

The Lodge is looking forward to an exciting and busy year ahead. The year will include 2 Conclaves (to include one hosted by Shenandoah Lodge next April) and a National Order of the Arrow Conference (NOAC) in July 2022 at the University of Tennessee in Knoxville.

Finally, at the recent National Council of Chiefs at Philmont the theme of the week was change..."Our world is changing and so must we." Lodge Key 3 from all over the country were challenged to put a great deal of thought and effort into what they can do to focus on evolving our amazing Order and supporting our youth as they lead it. As such, Shenandoah Lodge will seek to intentionally review and improve the what, how, and why we do things.

With summer camp behind us and the youth of the district spending their days in classrooms, it's time for the district to shift focus. We're seeing Join Scouting Nights all over the district and we're excited about the efforts being made. We have some big plans moving forward for recruiting this year and we can't wait to see how they turn out.

We want to thank everyone who responded to the district survey. We had a good turnout for it and if you'd like to add your thoughts to it, there is still time. We had some valuable insights to take with us. One thing we are going to be adjusting as a result of some of the feedback is that we are moving our Roundtable night. Roundtable will now be on the first Wednesday of the month, which for September is the 1st. You should have already received an email from Matt Phillippi about this. If you did not, please reach out to him to make sure your email is on his contact list.

A reminder that we will not be holding a district camporee this fall, and instead we are looking forward to Apple Harvest and hope your unit joins us there.

Time is flying by and we are preparing to honor our volunteers as well as our 2020 and 2021 Eagle Scouts at our 2022 District Recognition Dinner. We're in the very early stages of the planning for this, but we need nominations for adult awards to start coming in. We've had some exceptional examples of Scouters over the past two years, so we look forward to honoring them. Please email any nominations to Josh Calderon so that they can be passed on.

Lastly, thanks to Aaron Green, Scoutmaster with Troop 42, for the awesome pictures from their week at camp.

VALLEY—DO YOU KNOW?

A familiar face to Valley District and around the Council is James Kinder. If you have taken Wood Badge and received your beads, you likely have received a prayer satchel from James. James also presents these satchels to new Eagle Scouts at their Court of Honor.

James is a very active volunteer. He is a unit commissioner, has served on numerous Wood Badge courses, was a quartermaster for the Heart of Virginia Council's recent NYLT course, and serves as course director for our NYLT course. James also arranges a free pre-summer camp medical physical for Scouts and Scouters. He is always ready with a cheer or a song. Currently you find him promoting PhilBreak, Philmont Scout Ranch's alternative spring break opportunity. Volunteers spend the week assisting the Philmont Conservation staff in timber thinning projects following the Ute Park fire of 2018.
